

Strategy Description

FAM Alternative Income Fund 'FAI' seeks stable and recurring income that is independent of market performance by investing opportunistically in truly alternative investments, instead of traditional income assets such as equities and bonds. The strategy focuses on performance drivers that make sense and are backed by empirical research.

Market & Portfolio Developments

Commentary

2022 ended on a sour note for most investors as both global equities and bonds declined -3.91% and -1.18% in December, respectively. Consequently, performance for traditional income portfolios was also a sea of red. While it may seem like investors had nowhere to hide, FAI continues to offer an alternative source of income.

FAI recorded another positive gain of 1.08% in December. Performance was driven by exposures to the Insurance-linked markets; which continue to deliver stable and more importantly uncorrelated returns for our investors. The team continues to monitor the set of alternative income opportunities and will allocate when their FVT is favourable.
