

Meranti Millennium Equity (SGD)

Our Strategy

Throughout human history, no society has enjoyed access to as vast information as we do today. While this abundance and convenience of information have their advantages, it has also brought constant anxiety to investors as they grapple with the decision to buy or sell. Not to mention the pressure they face during unexpected and potentially catastrophic events such as the 2008 Great Financial Crisis where the price of global equity markets declined sharply by -60%. Meranti Millennium Equity strategy (MME) is designed to set aside a fixed protection budget to help investors not only stay invested but also top up when markets are at their maximum fear, which is inevitable in the journey of any long-term equity investor.

Power Of Loss Aversion In Both Returns And Emotions

Leverage on the Meranti Millennium Equity (MME) strategy to participate in the global economic growth without worrying about market crashes which can hurt investment returns significantly. The greater the loss, the harder it is for investors to recover:

Returns to Recover Losses

Loss of	Gain of
1%	1.01%
5%	5.3%
10%	11%
20%	25%
33%	50%
50%	100%
75%	300%

In times of significant market downturns, such as the Great Financial Crisis of 2008 and the Covid-19 pandemic in 2020, an investor using Dynamic Risk Management (DRM) to invest in global equities would have experienced smaller drawdowns and ultimately achieved a higher return than an investor without such protection.

Since January 2025, MME has enhanced its investment approach to better capture short- to medium-term trends, while maintaining a focus on long-term growth. With tighter risk management and stronger alignment to upward market movements, the strategy is now positioned to respond more effectively to market conditions and deliver more consistent, predictable returns going forward.

Discerning The Signals From The Noise

A three-pronged research process to identify signals that point us to sustainable trends which are underappreciated by the market, which come with good fundamentals and attractive valuation, with a higher likelihood of outperforming over the long term.

Fundamental

Study financial and economic data (e.g. GDP, unemployment rate, and inflation rate etc.) that may drive market movement to find opportunities with good fundamentals that are underappreciated.

Valuation

Picking the right valuation metrics (e.g. price-to-earnings, price-to-book, EV/EBITDA etc.) to spot undervalued opportunities and avoid overpaying for any investment with only good stories.

Trend

Seek inflection points in sustainable trends to capture overlooked opportunities and avoid less recognised risks (such as the end of a bond supercycle).

High Level of Active Management

Many actively managed funds underperform because they have a low active share. This happens when a portfolio's holdings are very similar to the referenced benchmark, a practice commonly referred to as 'benchmark hugging'. In contrast, funds with a high level of active management may have greater potential for outperformance in the long run, as there is no way any fund can outperform the market if they are investing like the market.

By investing in areas where we have the greatest conviction and applying it to our whole portfolio, we aim to provide better returns over risk through a full market cycle.

Market & Portfolio Developments

July 2025 ushered in renewed optimism across financial markets. Alongside robust US economic data, sentiment was also driven by favourable US trade deals with key partners like Japan, the EU, and South Korea. Tariffs were once again the biggest driver of the month, with President Trump postponing the initial 90-day reciprocal tariff deadline (originally set to expire on July 9) to August 1. Against this backdrop, risk assets rallied while safe havens like Treasury bonds struggled in July.

Against this backdrop, MME delivered returns of 1.51% in July, extending year-to-date gains to 5.36%. In the past month, performance was driven by US equity positions which gained strongly on the back of a resurgent “Magnificent 7 exceptionalism” narrative. The key pillar of support came from Q2 earnings, with an earnings growth rate of more than 8% versus the expected 4%, led by tech and bank names.

Our baseline view is that the short-term risk-reward has become less favourable after the strong market rally since the April bottom - a brief consolidation appears imminent. At the same time, the risk of an imminent recession remains low (and earnings resilient) which continues to be supportive for markets further out. We’ve been trimming weaker positions and adding to those with stronger fundamental support to improve overall portfolio risk/reward.

With the next phase of trade policy and growth expectations taking shape for the second half of 2025, we remain vigilant. Volatility may return, but it will be an opportunity for our active and flexible approach to take advantage of.
