

FAM Millennium Equity Strategy (USD)

29 August 2025

Our Strategy

Following the 2008 Global Financial Crisis and the 2020 Pandemic, the flood of unprecedented liquidity and low interest rates in markets propelled prices of nearly all assets to record highs. Today, it is increasingly challenging for investors to achieve above-market returns using the “winning formula” of the past decade. The FAM Millennium Equity (FME) strategy is designed for investors who are willing to avoid crowded markets and embrace volatility, to achieve above-market returns over the next decade.

Taking Advantage of the Market Cycle

Just as in nature, there are also seasons in financial markets. Sowing and harvesting in the wrong season can be detrimental to any investment. Rather than trying to accurately predict year-on-year movements, we believe that capturing long-term cycles and trends brings a much greater impact for investors. There have been two important seasons in the past 20 years:

Emerging Market Season (2001 – 2010)

Best	EM 13.8	Asia -5.6	EM 55.8	EM 25.6	EM 34.0	Europe 33.7	EM 39.4	Japan -29.2	EM 78.5	EM 18.9

By identifying investments with good fundamentals and investing in them when their valuations are low (sowing) and taking profit when the opportunities mature (harvesting), FME is designed to help investors avoid the possibility of “missing the season”, as the human tendency to chase past performance can prevent them from enjoying future strong returns.

Historical Performance

Calendar Return, %

Class	Jan	Feb	Mar	Apr	May	Jun	Jul	Aug	YTD
A USD	2.84	-2.14	-3.99	-1.22	5.79	4.22	1.65	1.75	8.84

Since January 2025, FME has enhanced its investment approach to better capture short- to medium-term trends, while maintaining a focus on long-term growth. With tighter risk management and stronger alignment to upward market movements, the strategy is positioned to respond more effectively to market conditions and deliver more consistent, predictable returns going forward.

Discerning The Signals From The Noise

A three-pronged research process to identify signals that point us to sustainable trends which are underappreciated by the market, which come with good fundamentals and attractive valuation, with a higher likelihood of outperforming over the long term.

Fundamental

Study financial and economic data (e.g. GDP, unemployment rate, and inflation rate etc.) that may drive market movement to find opportunities with good fundamentals that are underappreciated.

Valuation

Picking the right valuation metrics (e.g. price-to-earnings, price-to-book, EV/EBITDA etc.) to spot undervalued opportunities and avoid overpaying for any investment with only good stories.

Trend

Seek inflection points in sustainable trends to capture overlooked opportunities and avoid less recognised risks (such as the end of a bond supercycle).

High Level of Active Management

Many actively managed funds underperform because they have a low active share. This happens when a portfolio's holdings are very similar to the referenced benchmark, a practice commonly referred to as 'benchmark hugging'. In contrast, funds with a high level of active management may have greater potential for outperformance in the long run, as there is no way any fund can outperform the market if they are investing like the market.

By investing in areas where we have the greatest conviction and applying it to our whole portfolio, we aim to provide better returns over risk through a full market cycle.

Market & Portfolio Developments

Commentary

August 2025 was marked by competing narratives that swung sentiment from risk-off to recovery. The month started off with fresh tariffs imposed after the August 1 deadline, compounded by a disappointing US jobs report that stoked slowdown fears. Specifically, weak July jobs data, including hefty downward revisions of -258k for prior months, triggered a sharp sell-off.

However, markets recovered quickly, with the S&P 500 notching new highs amid a dovish shift from Fed Chair Powell at Jackson Hole, fueling expectations for a September rate cut. Against this backdrop, FME delivered returns of 1.75% in August (bringing total gains to 25.77% since the Liberation Day bottom on 9 Apr).

Staying Balanced in a Shifting Market

Our baseline view remains that the short-term risk-reward is less supportive – odds of a brief consolidation are higher in the near term. The growth-inflation picture remains uncertain, and the US labour market continues to soften. That said, continued earnings resilience, coupled with the prospect of interest rate cuts, provides support for markets.

In this environment, we've taken steps to improve the portfolio's resilience and flexibility, such as by maintaining a well-balanced approach across geographies and sectors to help navigate multiple potential outcomes. Within the US allocation, we've refined our Alpha basket by focusing on opportunities where we have higher conviction in their long-term outperformance potential.

We remain cautiously optimistic, recognizing both the strength of recent market momentum and the potential for short-term volatility. Our focus continues to be on maintaining a measured approach while remaining on high alert on economic indicators to guide us on upcoming risks and opportunities.
